Is This Part of Gross Income for Tax Purposes?

Yes, the incentive is included in the employee's gross income and in wages for federal employment tax purposes.

Your employee should contact the IRS to determine how to report this benefit and for any other tax related questions or obligations.

NFC will report payment of this incentive to the IRS.

IRS Reporting

Note: See the Office of Personnel Management web site for additional information on tax liability.

Tax withholdings are deducted or applied at the time the loan repayment is made. Tax withholdings may not be spread out over time.

Tax

Withholdings

The deduction for employment tax withholding reduces the maximum loan repayment.

Example: If you grant a benefit of $6,000 and your employee's tax deductions are $2,000, then the actual loan payment to the loan institution is $4,000. However, the fully approved benefit amount of $6,000 counts toward the maximum benefit limitations.

In an effort to ease the tax liability to employees receiving this benefit, you may have:

- NFC make smaller payments at periodic intervals through the fiscal year or subsequent years, rather than issue one lump sum;
- Your employee write a check to MRP to cover the tax liability rather than have it withheld from your employee's pay check;
